

Support

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 23 September 2010 14:36 -

We have found that corporate counsel offices are often burdened with the day-to-day tasks of governing the corporation, there is little time for addressing the specific issues. We have experience in offering corporate counsel the support it needs to maintain efficiencies and company well-being in the area of technology transfer and intellectual property concerns.