

Searching

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 23 September 2010 14:38 -

We believe a thoroughly and diligently conducted ip searches can halt infringement issues before they become issues. We also believe searches do not have to be expensive. In our opinion, searching is not a low-level task to be farmed out. In infringement issues where patent claims are given an element-to-element comparison, the nuances and small details matter. We are knowledge, skilled, and experienced to detect nuances and small details in our growing and complex world of high technology.